Plank Flooring

KAARA Laminate wooden flooring is a versatile and affordable flooring option that mimics the look of real hardwood flooring. It's made up of multiple layers, including a durable wear layer, a printed design layer that resembles natural wood, and a high-density fibreboard (HDF) core that provides stability and strength.

One of the main benefits of laminate wood flooring is its affordability. It's typically less expensive than real hardwood flooring, making it a great option for those on a budget.

Parquet Flooring

Parquet is a type of wood flooring that is created by arranging small wooden slats in specific patterns. Laminate parquet flooring mimics the classic look of traditional parquet by arranging laminate slats in intricate geometric patterns. Known for its striking visual appeal, it features tiles designed to replicate shapes such as squares, diamonds, and triangles. This modern alternative provides the elegance of parquet with added durability, affordability, and ease of maintenance.
